JEB Four Racing

A Family Tradition of Success

The Brooks family – Jeff, Jamie, John and their father, James – have been racing together since 1993 when they started in the Super Gas Class. Together, they form JEB Four Racing and along with Kaeser Compressors, their primary sponsor for the last 22 years, are known across the nation for their unique, stylized Henry J cars. The latest “Super Henry J” – often referred to as the “Kaeser Henry J” - was built by Dan Page and features the latest technology, a carbon fiber body by Terry Hall and a Sonny Leonard motor.

JEB Four Racing is a frequent top finisher in the NHRA Northeast Division with a total of four divisional wins. In addition to two previous wins in the Super Gas Class, the team had a banner year in 2015. JEB Four won the Top Sportsman class at the Toyota NHRA Summernationals at Englishtown, New Jersey and the Lucas Oil NHRA Divisional at Atco Raceway. That year, they also finished their season in second place for the division and fourth place in the nation.
